WPAHS DOCTORS NAMED AMONG REGION'S BEST BY PITTSBURGH MAGAZINE

Twenty five physicians from the West Penn Allegheny Health System, representing 17 medical specialties, were recognized in the May issue of Pittsburgh magazine for being among the region's top doctors in their respective fields. Each year, Pittsburgh magazine publishes a list of the region's "top" doctors that is compiled by Castle Connolly Medical Ltd, an independent research firm. Castle Connolly's physician-led team of researchers follows a rigorous screening process to select top doctors on both the national and regional levels. Using mail, online and telephone surveys, the research team asks physicians and the medical staff leadership of major U.S. medical centers to identify highly skilled, exceptional doctors. To create the list, Castle Connolly contacted thousands of health professionals in the region and asked them to name the doctors to whom they would entrust a family member when faced with a specific medical problem. Careful screening of a doctor's educational and professional experience is also performed by Castle Connolly in the process of making a final determination of inclusion on the list.

Food-Borne Illnesses Love The Summer. Leaving food out in the sun too long can put a damper on your summer picnic. Because bacteria like warmth and food, leaving out items containing dairy or mayonnaise (even for a few minutes) puts you at risk for contracting a food-borne illness. Although deli meats last longer in the heat due to high salt content, it is recommended you put all foods away right after you are done eating. Methodist Hospital Houston, May 2010
